Marian College

Mandatory Reporting Policy

Context
A fundamental belief for Catholic Schools is that all students in our care have the right to be protected, nurtured and supported in their growth and development. The safety and wellbeing of the young person in our care is paramount. We must give priority to protecting any student from physical, sexual, and emotional harm and neglect.

The Children, Youth and Families Act 2005 (Vic) (CYFA) requires that mandatory reporters must make a report to the Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) Child Protection when they believe that a child (aged under 17) is in need of protection from significant harm from physical injury or sexual abuse.

If a report is made by mandatory reporters in accordance with CYFA mandatory reporting obligations, an additional report to the Police under s 327 Crimes Act may not be required unless you have further information.

Who Must Make a Mandatory Report?
Mandatory reporters are defined by the CYFA and include:
- teachers;
- the Co-Principals;

Policy Statement
Marian College commits itself to the protection, safety, and wellbeing of all the young people in our care.

Implications
- All staff are briefed annually about their legal obligations and College procedures regarding mandatory reporting.
- Counselling and support opportunities are available to staff/students as a result of a mandatory reporting incident.
- Staff, student and family confidentiality is protected.
- Staff documentation is immediate, accurate and stored in such a way that confidentiality is assured.
- Staff to be in-serviced on the indicators of physical, sexual and emotional abuse and neglect.

What Gives Rise to a Mandatory Report?
A mandatory report must be made as soon as practicable when you form a belief on reasonable grounds that a child is in need of protection where the child has suffered, or is likely to suffer, significant harm as a result of:
- physical injury; or
- sexual abuse;
- and the child's parents have not protected, or are unlikely to protect, the child from harm of that type.

Reasonable Grounds
The concept of ‘reasonable grounds’ requires you to consider whether another person, when faced with similar information, would also draw the same conclusion. It does not mean reporters are required to be certain, but rather reporters should ensure their concerns are well founded and based on information from a reliable source. There may be reasonable grounds for forming such a belief if:
• a child states they have been physically or sexually abused;
• a child states that they know someone who has been physically or sexually abused;
• someone who knows the child states that the child has been physically or sexually abused;
• a child shows signs of being physically or sexually abused;
• the staff member is aware of persistent family violence or parental substance misuse, psychiatric illness or intellectual disability that is impacting on a child’s safety, stability or development;
• the staff member observes signs of abuse, including non-accidental or unexplained injury, persistent neglect, poor care or lack of appropriate supervision; or
• a child’s actions or behaviour may place them at risk of significant harm and the child’s parents are unwilling or unable to protect the child.

Significant

'Significant' means that which is sufficiently serious to warrant a response by a statutory authority irrespective of a family’s consent.

What is 'significant' is not minor or trivial and may reasonably be expected to produce a substantial and demonstrably adverse impact on the child’s safety, welfare or wellbeing. Significant harm can result from a single act or omission or an accumulation of these.

What to Report and When

A report becomes mandatory as soon as is practicable after forming the belief.

A report must include details of the belief, and the reasonable grounds of that belief.

Additional reports must be made on each occasion where you become aware of any further reasonable grounds for the belief.

• It is not the member of staff's responsibility to investigate or prove that abuse has or has not taken place.

• A member of staff does not require the consent of the child or their family to make a report.

How is a Report/Referral Made?

Whenever there are concerns that a child is in immediate danger the Police should be called on 000.

• When a member of staff has formed a reasonable belief that a child in our care has been physically injured or sexually abused we are mandated to report the incident to Child Protection as soon as practicable.

• When a staff member has formed a reasonable belief that a child in our care has been emotionally abused or neglected we are mandated to make a referral to Child FIRST. A report to Child Protection should be made if they form a reasonable belief that a child is in need of protection.

• The processes for Mandatory Reporting of Child and Sexual Abuse is summarised in the School and DHS Processes for Mandatory Reporting of Child Physical/Sexual Assault flowchart. This has all of the relevant numbers required when making a notification.
A report to DHHS Child Protection should be considered if the staff member forms the view the child is in need of protection because:

- the harm or risk of harm has a serious impact on the child’s immediate safety, stability or development;

- the harm or risk of harm is persistent and entrenched and is likely to have a serious impact on the child’s safety, stability and development; or

- the child’s parents cannot or will not protect the child from harm.

To report concerns about the immediate safety of a child within their family unit, call the 24 hour Child Protection Crisis Line 13 12 78.

Concerns that require immediate attention should be made to the local or regional Human Services Child Protection office, or the After Hours Child Protection Emergency Services on 131 278.

What If I Don’t Have a Reasonable Belief?

If you don’t have a reasonable belief about a child, but still have concerns, you can refer the matter to a College Child Protection Officer.

There is also the option to refer the matter to Child FIRST. A referral to Child FIRST should be considered if a staff member forms the view that the concerns have a low-to-moderate impact on the child and the immediate safety of the child is not compromised.

A referral can be made when the following factors may affect a child:

- significant parenting problems;

- family conflict

- a family member’s physical or mental illness, substance abuse, disability or bereavement

- isolated or unsupported families and significant social and economic disadvantage.
